Unbalanced regulators are subject to what is known as the "supply pressure effect." That means an unbalanced regulators output pressure is affected by changes to its input pressure.

Unbalanced regulators can have a very large pressure change as their supply tank empties. This can cause a velocity to drop as the supply tanks pressure drops.

The Q.D. on the regulator end of the hose lets you quickly detach the hose from your air system even with the system still pressurized for quick and easy tank refills. Now even with your hose fully integrated into your Vest / Harness tank refills are a breeze .

We recommend that only TechT Gun Sav be used to lube your Mini
