As the name suggests, this latest incarnation of the EVO is equipped with a range of premium CNC parts from our own ULTIMATE component range. Externally, the new CNC trigger is clearly visible. The CNC trigger allows for a shorter trigger pull, making it easier to quickly follow-up fire.

Internally, this edition of the EVO includes the full range of spectacular components. Starting with the ULTIMATE CNC 30K motor, the highest quality motor in our catalog. It's fast, strong and reliable. Combining this with our ULTIMATE CNC 16.5:1 gearset, the CNC EVO spits out a whopping 35 BBs per second.

All this speed needs to be controlled, which is why the Leviathan ECU is integrated. With this ECU, the EVO CNC offers superior trigger response and programmable firing modes. Installing an anti-return lock also allows the use of pre-cocking. With the Leviathan app installed on the user's smartphone, the user can further fine-tune the rate of fire, adjust pre-cocking, active braking and much more. Additionally, the compression set has also received a complete CNC upgrade. This provides the most consistent air distribution for each BB fired.

As if that wasn't enough, the CNC EVO is equipped with the CNC ULTIMATE hop-up unit. This hop-up unit has been CNC machined from a single piece of aerospace aluminum, resulting in a far superior component. It offers up to a 20% increase in range and accuracy, and also allows the use of virtually all hop-up joints and BB weights available on the airsoft market.

Overall, the CNC EVO is everything one could hope for from an already impressive airsoft SMG that has been upgraded with some of the highest quality upgrade parts on the market. Its lifespan, performance and power are better than ever. This is truly the best the EVO has to offer.
