Reproduction of the 1868 hand rifle, in metal and wood, with a loading and firing mechanism/simulator.

This hand cannon is the result of shortening the rifle used by Wyatt Earp to make it lighter and more maneuverable. Wyatt Earp (1848-1929) was a U.S. Marshall famous for his extreme harshness toward outlaws. His most famous feat was the gunfight at the OK Corral (Tombstone, Arizona) against a gang of outlaws.

Recreate an American western shootout with the historical reproduction of this DENIX pistol, a weapon highly appreciated by historical recreationists and weapons collectors.
