Important Notice

Your gun may not be able to feed the BB due to a weak gas supply. You can simply remove a spacer to fix the problem. Alternatively, you can consult your gunsmith to advance the assembly to fix this problem as well.

Increased FPS can be achieved; however, this may require the collaboration of other parts and advanced skills are required. Incorrect installation/assembly may shorten the product life.

PS: Please note: Installing parts/assembling/mounting an airsoft gun will require intermediate knowledge; for an expert or airsoft gunsmith. Please refer to your airsoft gunsmith for proper installation/mounting. Some assembly may be required as the condition of each airsoft gun may be different. Regular maintenance is required for all airsoft guns to keep them in good working condition and reduce wear and tear issues on parts. Actual performance is based on the overall setting of your airsoft gun. Please consult your airsoft gunsmith for advice. Strong screw glue is required for installation. Use a drop of screw glue when installing the screw and wait for it to dry overnight. The screw thread may be damaged if the screw glue is not applied.
