Long format for increased stability

The AW Custom HX2003 features an elongated configuration that promotes stability during shooting. With its 109.9 mm inner barrel, it effectively limits muzzle rise - in practice, shot sequences remain smooth and impacts consistent.

High-performance CO2 blowback operation

The CO² blowback system ensures a clean and consistent cycle. The recoil is well-judged, offering dynamic sensations without compromising control. This system is particularly appreciated for its consistency during long sessions.

Large capacity and autonomy

With its 30+1 round HX 5.1 magazine, this model allows for extended firing sequences without interruption. A real advantage in dynamic shooting and Air Action , where rate of fire and fluidity are paramount.

Ergonomics and control in action

The textured grip ensures a firm and consistent hold. The magwell facilitates rapid reloads, while the overall balance inspires confidence from the first touch. Even during extended shooting sessions, comfort remains a priority.

Adaptable aiming and scalable configuration

The included sight mount allows for the installation of compatible optics as needed. The provided mounting hardware offers true flexibility to adapt the pistol to different shooting styles.
