A replica inspired by a great military classic

The ASG M92F Gas 6mm replica retains the iconic lines of the famous M92 pistol used worldwide. Available in black or stainless steel finishes, this replica maintains an instantly recognizable style, appreciated by both action enthusiasts and gamers looking for a simple and effective platform.

Non-blowback gas operation

Its non-blowback system prioritizes consistency and autonomy. The absence of a moving slide reduces gas consumption while simplifying maintenance. In practice, this allows for extended shooting sessions with reliable and low-maintenance mechanics.

A lightweight and pleasant design

Thanks to its FPV (Full Polymer Version) construction, this replica remains remarkably lightweight at only 486g. Handling is quick, natural, and comfortable. Its overall balance is immediately apparent, especially during initial use or extended sessions.

Fixed hop-up and recreational shooting

The fixed Hop-Up system helps stabilize the trajectory of 6mm BBs. Combined with a power of 0.61 joules and a velocity of 78 m/s, this model offers consistent performance for target shooting and recreational airsoft .

21-round magazine and double action

The 21-round gas magazine allows for rapid-fire action without frequent reloading. The double-action mechanism provides intuitive and smooth operation, particularly suited to beginners or casual players.

Two finishes available

The black version offers a classic, understated tactical style, while the stainless steel finish provides a more modern and contrasting look. Two different aesthetic approaches, but the same simple and effective mechanism.
